ATATÜRK ARBORETUM

Spacious serene arboretum with plant and tree collections, preferred for nature walks and photography.

Atatürk Arboretum is a large green area where trees and woody plants are exhibited on the Kemerburgaz-Bahçeköy road in the Sarıyer district of Istanbul.

The main goal of the arboretum is to serve the faculty and the students of Istanbul University's Forestry Department including the relevant agencies of the Ministry of Forest and Water Management, forest engineers, domestic and foreign scientists as well as nature lovers in their research work. Usually, the best time to visit is the autumn months, when the trees change color and begin to shed their leaves.
